From the mountains to the sea
Rings a sound that's dear to me,
Waking, sleeping, still I hear
"Alma Mater" dear.
No matter where I choose to roam,
You will always be my home.
Singing praises to the sky
For dear old Morganton High.

As I look back
I see I came to you
A wanderer - child
Dreamer in an ebony meadow of stars
Where I slept with the winds
'Neath a quilt of blue
Warm with sun and wet with dew.
Why, then, did you not speak to me?
I believed so much, I was so free.

And I came again
A warrior - child
Deserter from a battlefield strewn with words
Where I slept in the rubble
And the ruins of Time
Bored of fencing with rhetoric and rhyme.
Why, then, did you not speak to me?
The world an ocean, I was lost at sea.

So I come again
A way - worn child
Dweller in a universe submerged in Life
Where I slept contented
With mind unfurled
Awaiting your song in a silent world.
And now Earth, speak, enrapture me
And I'll sing your song; I will be free.

Holly Riddle
Class Poet

Last Will and Testament

We, the Senior Class of 1972, do hereby bequeath our varied possessions to our immediate posterity, in the hopes that they will continue to strive and obtain the goals set previously for them by their elders.

Article I: To the faculty, administration, and Mr. Babb, we leave an expression of gratitude and appreciation for guidance, inspiration, and unfailing tolerance during high school years.

Article II: To our parents and friends, we leave a deeper gratitude for watching us grow up and for giving us the direction needed to become young adults.

Article III: To the city of Morganton, we leave, only to return and prove our individual merits to all.

Article IV: To the underclassmen, we leave our love for the alma mater and the knowledge they will soon possess as upperclassmen.

Article V: To our heirs, we leave our treasured possessions:

I, Mary Alexander, leave my love of horseback riding to Dottie Billings.

We, Buddy Armour and Janice Leonhardt leave the ability to make beautiful music, both together and apart, to Scott Harbison and Sylvia Duncan.

I, Alice Avery, leave the ability to be heard and not seen to Eddie Maness.

I, Ruby Jo Bailey, leave my position of teachers' aid to Christine Hardin.

I, Sandra Barber, leave my musical talents to Willa Harbison.

I, Carol Barger, leave M.H.S. a little older and a little wiser than when I first came.

I, Fred Bauer, leave to paint Valdese blue and white.

I, Susan H. Berry, leave my long blond hair to Nancy Digh.

We, Susan L. Berry and Beverly Grady, leave our petite stature to Susan Barnhill and Kathy Shoemaker.

I, Richard Black, leave my skill at pushing a broom to Chuck Arney.

I, Steve Bolick, leave my love of Boone's Farm and my title of "Secret Sot" to Myelitia Melton.

I, Robert "Daniel Boone" Branch, leave my scientific expeditions to Table Rock to David Beam.

I, Eugenie Braswell, leave my exceptional artwork throughout M.H.S., knowing that now I will never be forgotten.

I, Horatio Bristol III, leave my good grades on history tests to Freddie Powell.

I, Kenneth Brown, leave with Elaine.

I, Freddie Brown, leave my hat in Put's room.

I, Sarah Brown, leave my ability to get along with everybody to Kathy Phillips.

We, Dennis Caldwell and Gary Chambers, leave our knack for always being well-dressed to Mike Clark and Herbie Erwin.

I, Doretha Caldwell, leave to have some fun in the city.

I, Lynn Charisse Campfield, leave my "Sunshine" to Sara Lynn Small.

We, Ray Carlson and Caroline Hill, leave our team effort of reforming Mrs. Deal to Susie Greer.

I, Geneva Carson, leave my love of soul to Vicki Avery.

I, Linda Caviness, leave to join "The Jackie Gleason Show".

I, Andrea Chambers, leave the school in care of the midgets.

I, Jenean Chapman, leave to become a barber (???).

I, Larry Clippard, leave my drives to Drexel to whoever else has a "friend" there.

I, Billy Conley, keep the memories of the Baptist Church beach trip to myself because they're mine . . . all mine

I, Toney Cook, leave M.H.S. to the kidds.

I, Carla Corpening, leave with diamond in hand.

I, Sharon Corpening, leave my unique giggle to Holly Stevenson.

I, Neil Craver, leave as I never lived — quietly.

I, R. Dale, leave to be known as ROBIN — not Rex.

I, Debbie Davis, leave my ten closets full of clothes to Rosemary Anderson.

We, Sandra Dees and Linda Johnson leave, having destroyed the reputation of the National Honor Society.

We, Janie DeVinney and June Patton, leave as the Senior Class's only red heads.

I, Sharon Epley, leave to marry Tim.

I, Phillip Ervin, leave my name "Lips" to any junior who thinks he can do what I've done.

I, Pam Evans, leave the wildcat suit in sole possession of Frances Hairfield.

I, Debra Ferree, leave with Sigmon to fulfill my interests in Chemistry and Physics.

I, Forrest Fleming, leave as M.H.S.'s one and only "Dupy".

I, James Francum, lace my shoes and leave for Canada.

I, Rusty Fulenwider, leave my neatly trimmed side burns to Steve Hobbs.

I, Eddie Gillespie, leave as "Pic and Pay's" top salesman.

We, Bill Greer and Allen Kirksey leave to tear Spartanburg apart.

I, Dean Handy, leave my Saturday night drives around the Patio to Jerry Buchanan.

I, Bobby Harbison, take my name "Clyde" with me, 'cause no one else deserves it.

I, Tyra Carriker, leave a generous supply of my own special product, "Tyra's Turn-On Tears" to Linda Luciana.

I, Marlene Hardin, leave with Bible in hand.

I, Gary Harris, ride away in a grocery buggy.

I, Ann Hester, leave my unfailing dedication in all I undertake to Sandra Tuttle.

I, Jenny Hollar, leave on the wings of the American dream.

We, Donna Huffman and Maryetta Thomas, leave our "model" builds to Jayne Russell and Kathy Dale.

We, James Hughes and David Tate, leave our seats on "Put's Absentee Bus" to Keith Saunders.

We, Marcus Humphrey, Lynn Womack, Emiley Tallent, and Gale Moore, leave our amiable personalities to Wallace Chambers, Sylvia Clark, Connie Browning, and Kay Small.

I, Kathrin Hunger, leave for Germany with memories of Linda, "fonny numbers," and my year at M.H.S.

I, Mark Ikard, leave my hairy chin to Roger Golightly.

I, Mary Lynn Jackson, leave my unperturbable "cool" to Sharon Sellers.

I, Pam Johnson, leave Belk's Sportswear Department to Yvonne Singleton.

I, Kim Kendricks, leave first period hall rounds to Christy Morrow.

I, Stanley Kincaid, leave my rugged good looks to Guy McDaniels.

I, Bettye Lay, leave my position on the Cauldron staff to June Hester.

I, Cindy Lee, leave my garlic supply to any reluctant junior.

I, Brenda Lequire, leave my cash register technique to Nina Grant.

I, Ruth Lewis, leave my talent in portraying trees to Debbie Oaks.

I, Ann Lipsey, ride a dinosaur into the horizon.

I, Michael Low, leave my numerous treks to Carolina to any junior lucky enough to get in.

I, Kenny Mathies, leave my position as only male member of the Senior Council to Cleve Thayer.

I, James Mauney, peddle away on my bicycle.

I, Martha McMurray, leave my "questionable position" in Mr. Snyder's math class to Debra Hollar.

I, Ronnie Connelly, leave my seat in the Pep Band to Johnny Stamey.

I, Cathy Edwards leave my interest in drama to Rhonda Fender.
 I, Richard Elmore, ride across the grass and into the sun in an orange Camaro.
 I, Robert Forney, leave to break Willy Mays' record of home-run hits.
 I, Cathy Landers, leave my determination to succeed to Carol Browning.
 I, Rick Robinson, leave 1 shoe on the 80 - yard line.
 We, Ginny Burnette, Terry Moses, and Alice Smith leave to become full time wives.
 I, Vickie Tate, leave my power to get the issue across to Vicky Drayton.
 I, Paulette Williams, leave my dreams of white Christmases to Kenneth Hawkins.
 I, Jerry Smith leave my lanky stature to Dwight Martin.
 I, Laura Mode, leave to become Morganton's own Betty Crocker.
 I, Debbie Morrow, leave my memories of "Cruncher" to his sister.
 I, Lana Nelson, leave a year's supply of Pampers to Ruth Robinson.
 I, Bill Nelson, leave the office of President to Sam Avery, Tommy Russ, Richard Pearson, and any others who might wish to compete. May the best man win.
 I, Deborah O'Neil, leave my skills in rebounding to Susan Marshall, hoping she'll make the most of them.
 I, David Paschall, leave my "fantastic" Chemistry experiments to Edgar Payne.
 I, Donna Potts, leave my constantly changing appearance to Pam Ward.
 I, Ed "PP" Powell, leave the Wildcat Den in care of Billy Thomas.
 I, Bill Ratcliff, leave my job as No. 1 lifeguard to Phil Petrie.
 I, Lee Richardson, leave my unruly hair to Robert Rader.
 I, Holly Riddle, leave all my dresses at home, because I never wear them anyway.
 I, Mac Sasser, leave my determination in romantic ventures to Zim Zimmerman.
 We, Angela Black and Debbie Wacaster, leave our everpresent neatness to Sharon Sellers and Susan Wiseman.
 I, Mary Wright, leave my quiet nature to Debra Taylor.
 I, Elaine Seitz, leave with Kenneth.
 I, Tory Silby, leave my love of skinny - dipping to any liberated female who doesn't mind goosebumps.
 I, Ted Saulman, leave to drive the Miller's Pharmacy truck.
 I, Dennis Simmons, leave my neat collegiate dress to Paul Grubb.
 I, Gary Simmons, leave to work at ECKERD'S.
 I, Jeff Smith, march away with Uncle Sam.
 I, Jennifer Smith, leave my skill to twist and twirl to Lynda Lee.
 I, Steve Smith, leave to join the staff of WSVM in Valdese.
 I, Anthony Surratt, reluctantly leave Miss Tomlinson.
 I, Phyllis Walker, leave my "secret ambition" to Martha Gates.
 I, Myron Whitley, leave the title of "Woolworth's Window Washer" to Randy Whitley.
 I, Lunda Williams, leave the annual rights to freeze in the Christmas parade to Sandy Feimster.
 I, Linda Wortman, leave my obsession with photography to Dickie McGee.

Prophecy

"O.K., move along here. Let them through! You'll all get in, sooner or later!" shouted the big, burly Hell's Angel as the caravan slowly entered the gates. The Over-the-Hill Gang, known once as the far-out generation, was making one final fling before turning it in: The Catawba Valley Music and Art Festival, situated on the banks of the Catawba River. Featuring a great deal of local talent, the old-timers could get together to swap tall tales of yesteryear and to dig a little of that old fashioned music so popular in 1972.

The organizers of this festival, business executives Martha McMurray, Sarah Brown and Deborah O'Neil, said it warmed their hearts to see so many old friends getting together again. What really warmed their hearts (and their bank accounts) was the $4.00 each person paid to enter. The dollar signs glowed in their eyes with each passing customer.

By now almost everyone was inside. Drivers Forrest Fleming, Ray Carlson, Steve Smith, and James Caldwell brought in the final few busloads, some from as far away as Canada. Linguistic experts Ann Hester and Donna Potts were only too happy to help out some of those good-looking French-Canadians. The lone German, Kathrin Hunger, had to make it on her own, except for the bumbling efforts of her American friend, Linda Johnson, who still has trouble understanding even English.

The gates of the festival were just closing as Eddie Gillespie and Dean Handy, famed driving duo, roared up in one of their renowned 500 horsepower stock cars. Their head mechanic, Dennis Simmons, was no where to be seen. It was discovered that his job is to stay under the hood to keep all the 500 hamsters in their cages. At first the Hell's Angel policing the gate, Jimmy Brock, refused to let them in; but with the finesse and tact (and the $20 bribe) of lawyers Bill Nelson and David Paschall, understudies to William Kunstler, Mr. Brock finally relented.

Everyone now inside, people began to settle down, waiting for some excitement. Maharishi Low, along with his exotic belly dancers, Sharon Epley, Paulette Williams and Tyra Carriker, began the festivities by having the crowd repeat sacred Hindu "Om" together. There seemed to be more "Oooooing" at the belly dancers, though. Next came Chicago, a group originally from that city, but now professing three local members: Buddy Armour, Neil Craver, and Myron Whitley, in addition to a groupie, Janice Leonhardt, rumored to be romantically involved with one member. The crowd yelled for their song "25 or 6 to 4", but the local members couldn't count that high.

During the break afterward, the crowd looked hungrily for something to eat. At last an old truck creaked into the area. "Hurray!" screamed the crowd. It was Trusty Rusty's Chicken Delight, a once prosperous enterprise, now in a shambles due to the smooth management of Mr. Fulenwider. Nevertheless, his loyal partner Don Charlet, and assistants Judy Greene, Ann Whisnant, Catherine Edwards and Susan Alexander unloaded barrels of the greasy stuff, which was instantly devoured by the multitude. Mary Alexander and Carla Corpening handled anyone who wanted to buy on credit. Needless to say, they were rather busy, considering the financial status of most of the group.

Sauntering through the crowd were two star football players, Robert Forney and Ricky Robinson, known today as the new Butch Cassidy and The Sundance Kid. Strangely enough, the Kid was still in his full uniform, hulking around mouthpiece and all, but no one seemed to notice. Following right behind was their quarterback, "Broadway" Dennis Caldwell. As usual, Broadway Dennis had a girl in each arm: Pam Evans in his right, and Sharon Corpening in his left. All three seemed to be enjoying themselves greatly. Other athletes in attendance included basketball players Edward (The Big E) Powell, center for the Carolina Cougars, fellow teammates Jeff McElrath and Phillip Ervin, and their famous manager, little Stan "The Man" Kincaid. Stanley had been thrown into the showers so many times after championships that he was beginning to wrinkle like a prune; therefore, the Cougars had hired as manager-to-a-manager, Freddie Brown, to help Stanley dry off more quickly.

One small group of stars from Hollywood had dropped in: Bill Greer, Lunda Williams, Allen Kirksey, Elaine Seitz, and Beverly Grady. They had all starred in that famous movie about suburban swingers, "Bill & Bev & Allen & Elaine & Lunda". But they were not given the warm greeting that well-known stars usually receive — the movie had been banned in North Carolina!

Once again, the music started. This time Gary Chambers, now leader of (who else?) the Chambers Brothers, with his sister Andrea, was putting on a fantastic show that brought the crowd to its feet. Behind the stage were psychedelic murals, courtesy of avant-garde artists Eugenie Braswell, Candace Forney and Sue Roche. An amazing spectacle was created by different colored lights flashing on the posters. Nurses Maryetta Thomas, Peggy Harris, Lynne Campfield, and Carol Barger, under the direction of Dr. Marcus Humphrey, M.D., took care of anyone who enjoyed the light show too much.

After the act, Holly Riddle, amateur poet, jumped onstage, grabbed the microphone, and began yelling incoherently to the crowd. It was probably poetry, but we will never know due to her untimely demise. Richard Black, Robin Dale, Jerry Smith and Gary Simmons, no lovers of poetry, they, quickly hopped onstage, grabbed Miss Riddle by the arms and legs, and threw her into the muddy waters of the Catawba. Alas, she was never seen again. Bill Ratcliff and Steve Bolick, giving nude swimming lessons at the time to Tory Silby and Terry Bowen, tried to save the disgruntled poet, but to no avail. "No rest for the wicked and the righteous don't need it", muttered the crowd.

During the ensuing break, many people stumbled over to the arts and crafts section, where one could buy a variety of goods, learn skills, and see exhibits. One of the finest was Lana Nelson's "handcrafted" rugs, extremely well made. Unfortunately, she would not divulge her technique for making such rugs. Another was James Mauney and James Hughes' "joint" effort, elaborate homemade pipes. They were guaranteed to work well, having been scientifically tested beforehand. Another interesting exhibit was Cynthia Lee demonstrating the fine art of Korean cooking. She had seaweed casserole, algae chowder, and octopi pie for dessert. Assisting her were Mary Wright on salt, and June Patton on pepper. (Get it together, girls!) Nearby was a latrine, in constant use.

The most unusual exhibit was Jeff Williams', who was showing how, with complete relaxation and self-control, he was able to go to sleep, in a crowded classroom, with his eyes open. His avid disciples included Anthony Surratt, Larry Clippard, and Brenda Lequire. Mr. Surratt, in fact, was already drowsing wide-eyed.

Upon leaving the arts and crafts area, one viewed the pathetic plight of two poor souls singing and playing for spare change near the exit. A closer inspection revealed that it was Mac Sasser and Richard Elmore, one-time idols of the music world, now penniless. Mac, singing in a low voice while strumming rhythmically on his remaining guitar string, and Richard, playing a bass guitar with no amp, mourned their sad fate. They were covered with small bruises probably coming from the crowd's throwing their nickels and dimes just a little too hard. Even now, a nauseated bypasser fired a nickel that ricocheted off Richard's head. "Thanks", he said, stooping to pick it up.

Outside, some of the more prosperous attendants were seen. Fashions, as usual, are big business these days, and many people have made this field their profession. Ginny Burnette and her husband Walter operate a roving head shop from the back seat of their Cadillac limousine. Pam Johnson, Caroline Hill, Lynn Womack, Jean Gates, Jenny Hollar, and Doretha Caldwell had all revolted against the tyrannical rule in a local department store to become co-owners; and have certainly made an improvement there. Angela Black and Debbie Davis also run a clothing store, a high class boutique. They started from scratch, a seemingly impossible job. Rumor has it that they received an extraordinarily good deal from the local bank.

There were a few scientists and doctors among the spectators. One of the most notable was Dr. Robert Branch, who found a cure for Mongolian Mumbly Peg during the famous Peg epidemic of 1982. Dr. Branch was assisted by his scientist-friend, Dr. Frederick Von Bauer, who was moving along quite well, considering the numerous bandages and casts encasing his body. Dr. Von Bauer had nearly met disaster recently while lighting a Bunsen burner.

Another respected member of the scientific community, Dr. David Tate, a highly successful pharmacist, was present. Dr. Tate had taken over control of the Lily Company, and with the help of his knowledgeable associate, Mrs. Debra Whitener, these two had turned the company into a very profitable enterprise. The Lily delivery vans, driven by Kenneth Brown, Ted Saulman, Toney Cook, and Kim Kendrick, were very much in evidence as they careened wildly about the festival grounds.

Once again, the music began; everyone hurried to get a seat close to the stage. Ike and Vika Tate, known to their close friends as Mark Icard and Vickie Tate, brought the crowd to their feet with some heavy sounds. Very much in evidence were their hard driving drummer, Jeff Smith, and their gyrating saxophonist, Emiley Tallent.

A surprise performance was given by New York City's Rocketts, which included such local members as Donna Huffman, Geneva Carson, Debbie Wacaster, Phyllis Walker, Susan H. Berry, and Cathy Landers. With much jumping around and leg waving (and Miss Huffman's falling off the stage) they exited, leaving the crowd howling with laughter.

The next act was also an all-girl group, this time a group known affectionately as Fanny. They featured Bettye Lay on drums, Jennifer Smith on guitar, and Sandra Dees as their deep-voiced lead-singer. Back-up vocals were provided by Debbie Morrow and Linda Caviness, screeching at the top of their lungs, since they had no microphones.

Sly and the Family Stone, one of rock's true supergroups, followed. Led by Sly (Mathies) Stone, they have remained one of the top attractions in America. Sly's little sister, Anne Lipsey Stone, was spotlighted on her trumpet. Other members of this group included Gale Moore, Alice Avery, Debra Fleming, Horatio Bristol, and Jenean Chapman featured on a mean honky-tonk piano. Unfortunately, the stoned Mathies met the same fate as Miss Huffman. Somehow, he could not see the edge of the stage through the four pairs of dark glasses stacked on his nose; consequently, he plunged into the crowd.

After these performances, the tired crowd was ready to rest and relax a while. More food was brought in by some local supermarkets; their generous managers, Bobby Harbison, Gary Harris, and Robert Whisnant donated most of the food free. Unfortunately, such generosity had almost ruined their business, so they were once again carrying the bags of groceries themselves.

There were numerous members of the local academic community present. From the high school were Bubba "Lombardi" Johnson, football coach, who is known for his tough enforcement of drinking and smoking rules, James Francum, brilliant math teacher, Billy Conley, U. S. history expert, Susan L. Berry and Ruth Lewis, librarians, and Ruby Bailey, guidance counselor and part-time nurse. From the community college were Joan Erwin, noted family psychologist (now into her fourth marriage); Linda Wortman, teacher of the deaf sign language by necessity, her vocal mechanisms having given out years ago; Laura Mode, instructor of barbering and the proper care of redheads; and Mary Lynn Jackson, guitar instructor, having gained this ability through the tutelage of a Small instructor.

The day was waning, but the promoters had saved the best for last. The final performer of the day was Bob Dylan, who kept the crowd going for over two hours straight. Afterwards, everyone agreed rather exhaustedly that of the many excellent performers seen today, Dylan was, indeed, the finest of all.

As the sun was setting, in the West, there was a lone flag flying above the festival grounds. The emblem on it resembled the ancient Zig-Zag trademark, but the face on it had somehow changed. Most of the local participants said it reminded them of some history teacher they had had in high school, but they couldn't quite "Put" their finger on his name.

Hi, everybody in M.H.S.!

Months before I left Germany I was often asked if I wasn't scared of being suddenly confronted with a foreign country, people I didn't know and a school system I wasn't familiar with. I just shrugged and said I wasn't sure.

I found out that I didn't have to be scared. First, I simply hid behind my language problem when I saw difficulties or troubles arising. And later, after two or three months I thought I was going to Morganton High School all my life: I had stopped guessing what the teachers, especially Put, were talking about and had started to know it. I had given up eating in the cafeteria, and my beautiful British English had gradually changed to American with a southern accent. (My British English teacher will probably flunk me next year!) I had started to understand the system of football and that the existence of cheerleaders is absolutely necessary. Surprisingly fast for myself I got used to the daily school - life and I began really to enjoy it, even if I thought I could never stand the same subjects every day, every week and every month for seven hours a day. This one year in Morganton showed me how important it should be for everybody to leave his familiar surroundings and experience the life in a foreign country. I got a better understanding of my own country and the U.S. and I wish all of you could have the opportunity to get it too. Thank you for this year and if you should visit Germany, be sure to come by house and see me.
